As a school we believe in a holistic approach to nurturing our pupils both socially and academically. To support this, we have invested in, and given parents the opportunity to engage with the Solihull Approach to parenting training package. Developed through a co-ordinated effort by health visitors, psychotherapists and psychologists, the Solihull Approach covers a range of strategies designed to enhance parent and child relationships. This in turn can positively benefit child behaviour, and a child's social, emotional and mental health. Parenting is both a wonderful experience and a challenging one at the same time, the training opportunity is therefore of potential benefit to all of us as parents.

If you would like more information, please contact either our Parent Support Advisor (Nicki Price), or myself. Additionally, further details can be found at the following website: www.solihullapproachparenting.com

We will inform you of forthcoming training dates once they become available.
